Whoa! I do not want Lotus to present. I do want to get copies of their slides to better understand how they will position OMI to ISVs.

I also think we should continue to leave IBM out.

Two items:

I've had two calls now from IBM's OfficeVision group asking about our MAPI Design Review. I have not returned their calls. They are not being invited. Right?

Lotus called (Mike Weston of cc:mail group) today. They want to do a 10 minute presentation on OMI. I returned the call and said basically, "Gee, kind of late in the game, but send us a copy of what you want to present and we'll get back to you on Monday."

10 minutes means this is a marketing presentation. Cameron believes that we can probably thoroughly discredit this in front of the other attendees if this is the case (we're hedging til we see the presentation). What do you think? Do you want to see the proposed presentation first?
