CONFIDENTIAL

For some reason I keep worrying that OEMs are going to get pissed at us for telling the world that Windows requires MS-DOS. We aren't explicitly stating "or OEM versions of it". When people get a Zenith, don't they get what they think is Zenith-DOS. I'm worried that users will get worried and raise a stink because they don't have something clearly marked as MS-DOS on their system.

I'm sure you have worked through these issues and have the appropriate answers.
