yes, we need to do something along these lines. this is what I mean by the "product treadmill". dri is already perceived as being ahead.
if i were them, i'd come out with new utils and call it 6.5; keep ms on the treadmill. borland did it to us in languages; to lotus in spreadsheets. let's not let dri do it to us in msdos.

too many will just be a churn. but we can't just sit on the sidelines till msdos6, hoping fud and leaks will carry us.

| my 2 cents....

| DRI is getting perceived as the product innovator/leader
| because they look to be more active with new products.
| User's making a buying decision like the guy who appears
| to be in front doing the new stuff.

| We should be doing bundle after bundle with utilities,
| do one at a time, spread out 2-3 months apart or what
| ever cycle makes sense. Give each a new version number,
| MS-DOS 5.1; MS-DOS 5.2, etc. User will associate the | number with the utilities you bundled and perceive
| MS-DOS is really moving forward.

| couple of items more of an fyi -

| 1. looks like jodyg is going to fill the | test services position post 3.1 ship.
| I'm working out the details on this
| with her and try to have names for
| this team soon.

| 2. jodyg and i have been working with
