

Erik Stevenson

From: Mark Baber
To: bradsi; joachimk
Cc: jeffl
Subject: -RE: who the f.. Lori thinks she is?
Date: Tuesday, October 19, 1993 2:53PM

I believe the bottom line here is that, for the most part corporate accounts will clean all Compaq software off the H/D prior to the PC ever reraching the desktop. Point #2, it is obvious that Compaq resisted WFW as a result of wanting to close their strategic agreement with Novell and believe me Novell said "No way" to WFW.

markba

From: Brad Silverberg
To: Joachim Kempin; Mark Baber
Cc: Jeff Lum
Subject: who the f.. Lori thinks she is?
Date: Tuesday, October 19, 1993 7:22AM

what really blows my mind on this is that during the snowball talks compaq gave us all these reasons why corp accounts didn't want something different, how thye just want plain windows, etc.

and iwth this new shell, corp accounts will be forced to support different interfaces. will drive their helpdesk crazy. how does a user do X? if windosw shell then Y else if tabworks then Z. they will not like this at all.