The thing to talk about how WFC is in line with Microsoft long term and strategic interests (Windows, Windows Windows), while long term strong support of cross platform solutions is not. That makes is a much safer bet!

I feel obliged to be very honest. He will be pissed but will work through it.

Comments?

Hi Bill,

Baan is currently using AFC in its Baan Internet product. Are WFC and AFC totally different or transparently the same but WFC is tied to windows where AFC is AWT based? I guess I'm asking you how much of a dead end did Baan go down by using AFC. How much work will it be to switch from AFC to WFC.

Paul,

I'm real concern about something like this happening again.

If I'm betting Nucleus on NT/DCOM and a whole of MS technologies, what's my guarantee that MS doesn't pull a switch like this.

thanks
tuoc
