The memo is really quite well done and well researched. we should have grabbed this guy!

The main areas of work that he wants in 2.1 are:
- testing in various areas (mostly printing)
- memset modifications
- setup modifications
- "new user" flag for printer setup
- XMA LIM 4.0 driver

I will have my team investigate memset, new user flag and setup issues. The work that we would do isn't that much and doesn't affect the core of the product (user/kernel/gdi).

We also want us to track down and fix some graphics problems as well. I'll put rong on that as soon as he shows up (yess, we have him back now).

I don't know if all of you have looked at the apps memo from david cole explaining what we think is needed in 2.1. I basically agree with the memo even if it means slipping the schedule. I would like to understand where we stand on this. If we need a meeting on this lets schedule it for friday since i am gone the next week.

I would also like some mail explaining how much we win from using the 286 instructions - this is still a little controversial with some customers.
